

[1] There are many types of shopping places in big cities. There are markets, shopping centres and department stores. Markets, including open-air markets selling fresh products such as fish, vegetables, flowers, and antiques, usually open on specific days of the week. Shopping centres and department stores usually stay open all day through, seven days a week. They are usually more expensive than open-air markets.

[2] In Morocco, the more traditional stores are found in the older city neighbourhoods. There are a few streets in the old part of Fez, for example, that don't have many shops. The basic shop there is the tiny grocery store. From this store local customers buy commodities like sugar, tea, oil, soap and lemonade. The larger supermarkets appear in the suburbs further away from the city.

A. Circle the best titles of the text. (0.5 pts)

1. Shopping habits
2. Shopping in Fez
3. Shopping places.

B. Find in the text synonyms of: (4.5 pts)

1. Goods (parag. 1) = _____
2. Small (parag. 2) = _____
3. bigger (parag. 2) = _____

C. Write true (T) or false (F), then justify. (3 pts)

2. Open-air markets and supermarkets open seven days a week.

3. Open-air markets are cheaper than department stores.

D. What do the underlined words in the text refer to? (2 pts)

1. They: _____

2. there: _____

A

[1] There are many types of shopping places in big cities. There are markets, shopping centres and department stores. Markets, including open-air markets selling fresh products such as fish, vegetables, flowers, and antiques, usually open on specific days of the week. Shopping centres and department stores usually stay open all day through, seven days a week. They are usually more expensive than open-air markets.

[2] In Morocco, the more traditional stores are found in the older city neighbourhoods. There are a few streets in the old part of Fez, for example, that don't have many shops. The basic shop there is the tiny grocery store. From this store local customers buy commodities like sugar, tea, oil, soap and lemonade. The larger supermarkets appear in the suburbs further away from the city.

A. Circle the best title for the text. (0.5 pts)

1. Shopping hours.
2. Shopping places.
3. Shopping in Fez.

B. Find in the text synonyms of: (4.5 pts)

1. a lot of (parag. 1) = _____
2. get (parag. 2) = _____
3. outside the city (parag. 2) = _____

C. Write true (T) or false (F), then justify. (3 pts)

1. Open-air markets and supermarkets open every day.

2. There are very big markets in the streets of old part of fez.

D. What do the underlined words in the text refer to? (2 pts)

1. They: _____

2. there: _____

B